Audiences are all the time in 2020, with big hitters like Snowflake, Lemonade, Doordash and more starting initial public offerings (IPOs) in recent months. Airbnb (NASDAQ: ABNB) is set to become the next of these companies to issue public sale shares in order to raise capital. What is Airbnb's stock symbol? Airbnb will start trading sometime after 9:30am EST on December 10, 2020 with the symbol ABNB ticker. How much does the Airbnb stock cost per share? On Tuesday, Airbnb increased its share price range between $56-60 per share, up from an earlier range of $44 to $50 previously estimated. However, it has since been reported that the company paid its shares at $68 apiece last night, which would have valued it at around $47 billion. From this, the company could hope to raise more than $3.5 billion from the event. This assessment makes it one of the largest IPOs of 2020. Airbnb's targeted valuation is well over double its recent valuation of $1.8 billion in April and is also a notable prize at the $31 billion price tag it received during its fundraising period in 2017. What does Airbnb do? This is a very important question that investors need to know before investing in a company. First, we hear their mission statement: To help create a world where you can stay anywhere and where people can live in a place, instead of just traveling to it. Airbnb is an online marketplace that connects people who want to rent their homes or rooms with people who are looking for accommodation in that area. As of September 2020, it covers more than 100,000 cities and 220 countries and regions globally, with over 5.6 million active listings. Is Airbnb profitable? Unlike many other tech unicorns, Airbnb has turned a profit. In the third quarter of 2020, Airbnb made a profit of $219 million with revenues of $1.34 billion. Despite these positive numbers, the company's earnings are actually down nearly 19% year-on-year from a $227 million profit on revenue of $1.65 billion in 2019. Airbnb has a huge potential market, with the world spending $4.7 trillion on travel in 2019 alone. In the company's IPO prospectus, it claims to have an achievable global market of $3.4 trillion. Airbnb has handled the devastating impact of COVID well, rotating from its main business model to offering short-distance getaways by car from people's homes. Taking travel and vacation rentals into account should assume it's a bit normal in 2021, Airbnb seems to be getting off to a strong start to public life. Do I need to buy Airbnb shares? Airbnb stock looks promising, though the pandemic may have led to revenue falling to 3.4 of dollars in the first nine months of 2020, but sales are still expected to increase to $6 billion by 2022. Wall Street analysts have often resorted to such short-termism by valuing only one company based on its most recent quarterly earnings instead of possible substantial long-term growth. Airbnb became the Uber of the hotel industry and has a huge achievable total market and huge brand recognition. While it might be a bit too risky for some, and there will be a lot of volatility around its IPO, it's clear that this was no longer just the couch-surfing startup once. Who founded Airbnb? The company was founded in 2008 by Brian Chesky, Nathan Blecharczyk and Joe Gebbia. Airbnb pays well? Airbnb pays its employees an average of $110,954 per year. How many people are there on Airbnb? Airbnb has about 5.6 million listings from 4 million hosts. A MyWallSt subscription gives you access to over 100 stock choices that beat the market and search to back up. What is Airbnb? Airbnb is a market that allows homeowners and landlords to rent their properties to and those who need a night's stay. Potential visitors can find unique accommodations and avoid staying at a hotel. Homeowners become hosts and make money by letting people stay in their homes. They list the property on Airbnb with photos, and potential visitors navigate the area for a place that works for them. The model works for a basement apartment or villa in the Hollywood Hills. If there is a request for a place to stay, and it is right for the potential visitor, the whole transaction takes place on the Airbnb platform. Click here to browse properties on Airbnb and book your first room. You can also consider becoming a host yourself. Is Airbnb listed on the stock exchange? Yes. This site encourages long-term investments instead of short-term trading. Think about your investment in Airbnb in increases of 5-10 years. What does Airbnb's business look like in a decade? Jim Cramer had this to say on his December 8 show: I want you to own Airbnb because he's ready to have a great year starting next March. If you can take stock for $68 or less this week, I'd back up the truck. If you can get it for less than $85, I'm giving you a small location. Higher up, though, and I have to say you have to hold the bat on your shoulder and wait for a better step. This roundup at Generalist is an excellent overview and a good place to fortify your research. Here's another opinion Scott Galloway, a marketing professor at NYU Stern who thinks Airbnb shares can reach a valuation of $100 billion by 2022. Airbnb S-1 Deposit Airbnb S-1 storage (modified version, December 7) is available in HTML format on the SEC website here. Previous and modified versions of the Airbnb S-1 deposit are published here. The company The company can raise up to $3.1 million by issuing 51.9 million shares at a price range of $56-$60 per share. This would have value for the company in a market capitalization range of $39 billion to $42 billion. Below is a PDF printed version of Airbnb S-1 of the original storage. Can I buy Airbnb shares? Three potential ways Now that Airbnb stock is a publicly traded company, only #1 below is an option for investors. #2 and #3 remain on this list for investors aspiring to acquire IPO shares of other offers in the future. Buy Airbnb shares after it started trading buy Airbnb shares in Airbnb's initial public offering for hosts 1. Buy Airbnb Shares After Airbnb IPO The IPO was completed on December 10. Even if you didn't take Airbnb for the IPO price, you can still own the company. In some cases, investors may enter at a price close to or below the IPO price (if the stock falls). That's not always true. The Beyond Meat IPO, for example, skyrocketed and never looked back. On the other hand, Uber opened below the IPO price and took more than a year to recover. Today you can own the company, buying Airbnb shares through a free online brokerage account after trading begins. So what is the best online brokerage for buying Airbnb shares? As a single investor, you'll want to open an account with a broker with no fees. This way, you'll invest most of your money instead of wasting it on fees. I'll go over one of my favorites below. It has zero fees and will make it easy to buy Airbnb shares once it starts trading on open stock markets. What is the best online broker to buy Airbnb shares after the IPO? Active traders who want to own Airbnb immediately when it starts trading, I recommend Robinhood (current deal : New customers get a free title worth up to $279). Robinhood does not offer access to the IPO. By contrast, long-term investors may prefer a better online broker for average dollar costs and dividend reinvestment. I am a big fan of M1 Finance online intermediation. M1 Finance is a reliable and robust online broker with no fees for beginner and intermediate investors. It's easy to get started. As your investment skills and portfolio mature, M1 is one of the best platforms to scale. Investing in shares is 100% free on the platform. Read my full review of M1 Finance here. M1 Finance doesn't offer access to the IPO, but it's my favorite for long-term buy and hold investments, my favorite strategy for Airbnb shares. The platform is more intuitive than old-school brokers because it's on a modern technology platform. Create your ideal portfolio first, then fund it over time. Just fund your account by adding Airbnb shares to your wallet pie. Learn more about M1 Finance 2. Buy shares in Airbnb's Initial Public Offering (IPO) It's too late to participate in Airbnb's IPO if you haven't indicated interest with a broker yet. See previous section. Demand is extremely high, which makes it very difficult to acquire pre-IPO shares. Position yourself for future IPOs. IPOs have always been available to the wealthiest clients of major brokerage firms. It's great if you're rich. Some online brokers are better for investing in IPOs than others. Financial technology is changing the way ordinary investors can invest in the IPO. You can now invest in selected IPOs. The best broker to access IPOs today is TradeStation. TradeStation partnered with ipo investment app ClickIPO to provide its customers with seamless access to IPOs and follow-on offerings. The company allows ordinary investors to invest in IPOs through their existing brokerage account. The ClickIPO app is now available to all U.S.-based investors for research and indication of interest in IPO shares. Connect your existing online brokerage on TradeStation to get started. The minimum to invest in the next IPOs is $500. Another broker for IPO access today is Webull, which has also partnered with ClickIPO to bring direct access to the IPO through its investment app. Webull is a smartphone broker similar to Robinhood, but has also built a significant desktop trading platform. Unlike Robinhood, Webull offers free access to IPOs. You can start buying IPOs once you deposit your first $100 on Webull. Deposit $100 or more and receive at least two free shares (often more). Read this Webull review for IPOs to learn more. For a larger list of IPO-respectful online brokers and their eligibility, check out this page. Fidelity (see below), Morgan Stanley, TD Ameritrade and Schwab are more likely to receive accommodations for their customers. ClickIPO ClickIPO shows the Airbnb IPO and allows people to indicate interest. No guarantee that they will receive an assignment. Demand is extremely high, which makes it very difficult to acquire pre-IPO shares. Only TradeStation customers can access IPOs through the ClickIPO app at this stage. Webull customers can indicate interest in the Webull app. Webull Webull displays both Airbnb and DoorDash, but there is no indication that Webull (via ClickIPO) will receive a significant allocation. Demand is extremely high, which makes it very difficult to acquire pre-IPO shares. pre-IPO. Airbnb's direct sharing program for hosts This offer is now closed. Thanks to those who have already contacted. Good luck! GREAT NEWS: The S-1 deposit indicates that there will be a direct sharing program for hosts! This means that if you're a host, you might be able to access Airbnb's IPO shares. Here is the text of the S-1 filing, updated after the amended release on December 1: At our request, subscribers reserved up to 3,500,000 Class A common shares, or 7.0% of the shares we offered in this offer, for sale at the initial public offering price through a program of actions directed at eligible U.S. hosts and some individuals identified by our officials and administrators. For hosts, those who reside in the United States and who had accepted by November 1, 2020 a reservation that began, or was supposed to start, in 2019 or 2020 are potentially eligible for the program. Airbnb employees are not eligible. If the application for the program exceeds capacity, we may invite hosts to participate based on ownership, as determined by the year they first hosted on Airbnb. The number of Class A ordinary shares available for sale to the public will be reduced to the extent that those persons purchase such reserved shares. Any reserved shares not so purchased will be offered by subscribers to the public on the same basis as the other shares offered by this prospectus. Morgan Stanley & Co. LLC will manage our direct action program. HOST: Watch your emails to receive communications from Airbnb about the direct sharing program. You may be able to participate in the IPO. Updates from hosts Some hosts have contacted about receiving emails from Morgan Stanley about the direct sharing program. The emails went out on December 1. The main takeaway was that stocks were limited. One host reported that they are only able to indicate interest for up to 275 shares or $16,500 (the actual allocation will likely be lower). The minimum investment has been set at $300. The participation required the opening of a special brokerage account with Morgan Stanley and available shares based on first come, first served. One reader wrote: I wonder if you know where Airbnb hosts who qualified for the IPO can contact us if we haven't received the offer (we're 2 years old with Airbnb, in the US, superhosts, above average revenue, filled out the documents the day we received it). The emails came from this email account: . Check your Airbnb email account and spam. Another reader wrote: Hi - I am a super host on Airbnb and have been invited to buy IPO shares. I created my account with Morgan and the ACH is ready to go. Do you have any advice on how many shares I should buy or any other advice for me? Thank you very much! Based on the question, I'd say how much you can afford! This email arrived on December 2, indicating that the account setup process occurred quickly. Another email: I'm an Airbnb host who received an invitation to participate in the host host's Pre-IPO warehouse I was lucky that my account was approved on the first day. They closed the application process after 24 hours because of so much interest. I will be happy to share information if you are still interested. Thanks to the readers who contacted. I didn't post a copy of the email from Morgan Stanley because it's too long. The conclusion is that this opportunity was briefly opened, it seems on December 1st and closed on December 2. . Here's a question I received on 12/07 at 18:00 EST: Any updates on Airbnb's direct sharing program for hosts? We haven't received any notifications, so I'm looking everywhere before the actions go live. Answer: From what I heard, eligible hosts (as defined in S-1) received an email from Morgan Stanley on December 1. With a narrow question, hosts had to respond quickly, probably within 24 hours or less to participate. Those who responded successfully should have been contacted to open a special account with Morgan Stanley for the IPO. If you haven't been contacted to set up your account, I guess you didn't respond quickly enough. If you've never received an email from Morgan Stanley, you're probably not eligible. Keep in mind that accessing this IPO is a priority, not a right, and these implementations are difficult to perform flawlessly in a short time. Some eligible may not have received the email or not on time. Others were lucky, immediately saw the email and signed up. Airbnb and Morgan Stanley owe nothing to anyone, not even those who responded on time. For those who moved quickly, congratulations and good luck. For the rest, I'm sorry. These kinds of opportunities are rare! See section 1 above: Buy Airbnb shares after Airbnb IPO. If you are not positioned to participate, keep a long-term view and consider buying the stock after trading begins. But that's not necessarily a reason to be disappointed. Google's shares rose 18% on the day of its IPO. Many people probably sold that day. If they had held for the next decade, their holdings would have been up 1,000%. If Airbnb is a really big business, the real money will be made over the next decade, not on the date of the IPO. Do due diligence on the SEC S-1 deposit and don't buy Airbnb shares with money you can't afford to lose. * Disclosure: The web page contains affiliate links of our partners.
